Tips & Tech

- Print and cut out the player codes and distribute among your class. Some teachers like to laminate them for durability.
- Squiggle Park can also be played at home; students will just need their codes and to follow the web or iPad instructions above.
 - This PDF includes letters for students to take home to their parents explaining the fall pilot; there is a separate letter and code / instruction sheet for each player.
- Ensure your volume is turned on!
- If there are many players in a classroom, you may want to consider using headphones.
- To make the game full-screen on the web, you can click on the square expand icon in the bottom right corner of the screen.
- You can skip the tutorials by clicking the tapping on the screen / clicking the mouse button
- Squiggle Park requires an internet connection to play.
- Squiggle Park can also be played at home; students will just need their codes and to follow the web or iPad instructions above.
- To play Squiggle Park on an iPad you need to download the app from the App Store <https://itunes.apple.com/app/id1077048621>. It cannot be played from a mobile browser.
- The best web experience on a Mac or PC is using Chrome, but we also support Firefox, Safari, Opera and Edge browsers. Internet Explorer is not supported.
- Squiggle Park can be played on 64-bit Chromebooks. We do not support Chromebooks that use 32-bit ARM processors.
- To quit playing the games:
 - On Web - simply close the browser tab and the player will be logged out.
 - On an iPad / iPhone - press the back button in the top left corner of the screen.

Our class is learning to read with Squiggle Park! :-)

Dear Parents,

Our school has been given an opportunity to use a great new program called Squiggle Park that has proven to help kids master their foundational reading skills with 30 minutes of play per week!

With Squiggle Park students journey through worlds and complete stages, helping them practice and master reading skills as they play! A huge bonus is that the students can also play the games at home, and you can be sure that what they're playing is supporting their ongoing development and success in the classroom! To enable this, each child has their own unique set of Squiggle Park codes. I will be sending these home with your child, along with instructions on how to use them.

Please let me know if you have any questions or to learn more, visit the website at:

Many thanks,
